Furthermore, your tasks will include attending career fairs and helping with the on-boarding process.

WHAT YOU'LL BE HANDLING

- Conducting analyses of staff needs and requirements
- Creation of job postings and selection of suitable recruiting channels
- Independent conducting of job interviews and consulting for managers when they select candidates
- Negotiation of employment contracts and creation of contract documents
- Attending career fairs and support during the on-boarding process
- Contact person in case of questions relating to labour law, including contracts

WHAT YOU'LL NEED

- Successfully completed technical or commercial education
- At least 2 years of job experience in recruiting (ideally in connection with IT/software)
- Technical interest and understanding
- Very good command of German and English
- Excellent communication skills, confident behaviour and diplomatic talent
- High degree of loyalty and good interpersonal skills, team-oriented work style and discretion

WHAT YOU'LL RECEIVE

- A successful, privately owned company with a strong focus on culture and values
- A cooperative, appreciative working environment with your own area of responsibility
- Flexible working hours and many benefits
- Cooperation with international teams
- Contribution to the creation of future-oriented business areas
- Flat hierarchies and short decision-making processes

The minimum annual gross pay for this position is 38,397 Euros according to the collective agreement. A possible overpay depends on your individual job experience and qualification.
